How Talkspace psychiatry works

1. How to register

Visit talkspace.com/FAES and select the "sign up for psychiatry here". Enter the keyword: FAESpsych to start the QuickMatch™ prescriber-selection process.

By answering a few questions, we'll then match you with a prescriber based on your needs.

2. Schedule your initial session

Once matched with your dedicated prescriber, you can schedule your initial live video psychiatry session immediately. The first session typically takes place within a week of registration. Remember appointment scheduling is based on your availability and preference.

3. Begin treatment

Your prescriber will personalize your treatment, which may include ongoing medication management and follow-ups — all conducted via live video session that can last up to 30 minutes.

Frequently asked questions

What is the difference between therapy and psychiatry?

Therapists work with you to discuss personal challenges and devise a treatment plan via "talk therapy." They are not able to prescribe medication. Psychiatrists and nurse practitioners are licensed medical providers who specialize in mental health treatment and provide personalized medication management. You may choose to do just therapy, just psychiatry, or both treatments with Talkspace.

What kinds of medication does Talkspace prescribe?

Talkspace prescribers are able to prescribe all medications, with the exclusion of controlled substances. Controlled substances include, but are not limited to: Adderall, Ativan, Concerta, Klonopin, Librium, Tranxene, Ritalin, Vyvanse, Valium, Xanax, Suboxone.

What technology do I need to access a psychiatrist?

All Talkspace psychiatry sessions happen through Live Video Sessions (LVS) on the Talkspace platform. At this time, we support LVS on the web and mobile/tablet versions of Talkspace. The Talkspace app is available on both iOS (iPhone, iPad, or iPod) and Android devices, using cellular connection or WiFi.
